COUNTY MEDICS HEAR TALK BY DR. J. SZYPULSKI

The regular monthly meeting of the Adams County Medical society was held Wednesday evening in the board room of the Annie Warner hospital with 16 members and three visitors present. Dr. W. North Sterrett presided.

Dr. John Clair Menges, of Abbotstown, was elected to membership in the society. He was born in York county, graduated from the Temple university school of medicine, and served his internship at the York general hospital. From September 1947 until September of this year he was stationed with the U. S. Air Force with the rank of captain. Since September 1, he has been located in Abbotstown in the general practice of medicine succeeding Dr. David Thompson, and the late Dr. T. C. Miller.

Dr. Gifford Reports
Dr. Roy W. Gifford gave a report on the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Medical society held in Pittsburgh last week. He pointed out that participation by the public in the Blue Shield prepayment plan covering the cost of physicians' care, which is sponsored by the state society, has increased during the past year. He also reported that the state society has been active in all phases of preventive medicine.

Dr. John T. Szypulski, bronchologist at the Mont Alto and the Hamburg state sanitariums, and member of the staff of the Warner hospital, presented an illustrated lecture on the historical development and practical applications of chest surgery. He stressed the importance of the early diagnosis of chest disorders so that proper surgery can be rendered selected cases.

Favors Chest Surgery
Dr. Szypulski emphasized the fact that recent developments in the field of anesthesiology, the advent of penicillin, streptomycin, etc., have made chest surgery as safe a procedure as abdominal surgery. In certain types of stomach surgery and in the removal of the spleen he pointed out that the technique of operating through the chest is much easier than through the abdomen. Abscess cavities in the lung, and tumors in the tissue between the two lungs can now be operated upon successfully.

Dr. Szypulski has organized a bronchoscopic department and department of chest surgery at the Warner hospital. The equipment recently purchased by the Women's Auxiliary will be used in this work. He also has organized similar departments and operates at the Polyclinic hospital, Harrisburg.

VIRGINIANS TO VISIT 'FIELD

A group of about 30 prominent citizens of Alexandria, Va., will visit points of interest in Gettysburg Friday. The visitors will be headed by Charles E. Slagle, manager of the George Mason hotel, Alexandria.

The party will arrive in Gettysburg during the morning and will tour the battlefield, after which lunch will be enjoyed at the Hotel Gettysburg. The Virginians then will travel by way of Littlestown to the Hanover Shoe Farms, where they will see the famous stallions, and noted broodmares. They will then visit the Blue Bar kennels of C. N. Myers, adjoining the horse farms, home of champions and other outstanding English setters.

Next the visitors will proceed to the Hanover fair grounds where they will view more than 100 colts of the Hanover Shoe Farms now quartered there. A tour of the Hanover Municipal Water Works will follow.

Included in the visiting group will be jurists, city officials, businessmen and other prominent citizens of Alexandria.

George Lavelle, pastor of St. Aloysius church, will be host.

TEETER URGES INDUSTRIES TO MARK PA. WEEK

John D. Teeter, chairman of the industrial committee for the observance of Pennsylvania Week, today renewed his plea to county industries to participate in this observance.

Mr. Teeter said he had been advised that some industries are making plans to hold open house during the week. Others will feature Pennsylvania Week in their advertising and others will use displays and literature to promote the observance.

"I wish to call to your attention that our county is observing Pennsylvania Week October 17-24, 1949," Mr. Teeter's letter to the county's industries said.

Suggests Activities

"I am writing this letter to you at this time to start interest and to arrange for activity in our community for this occasion. It has been suggested to us by our State Department of Commerce that we, as manufacturers, do the following:

"Initiate activity for community and area-wide industrial expositions. Check availability of your armory or other suitable space.

"Plan to hold open houses.

"Plan special editions of employee and external house organs.

"Sponsor radio program with historical or locally pertinent industrial background or theme.

Her mother and Miss Ruth McIlhenny, English instructor at the local high school, will accompany her to York. Miss Hartman graduated from Gettysburg high school in the spring and is now enrolled as a freshman at Gettysburg college.

SEEK OWNER OF KEY

State police of the Gettysburg substation are endeavoring to locate the owner of a brown key container with three keys sent to them by the management of the Haddon Hall hotel, Atlantic City. The name "W. Swisher" is stamped on the key container, but police have been unable to find anyone of that name who claims it.

Dodgers Win Second Game Of Series

Special To The Times
Preacher Roe blanked the New York Yankees with six hits to win the second game of the 1949 World Series in the Yankee stadium this afternoon for the Brooklyn Dodgers. The series is now knotted at one game apiece.

Vic Raschi started for the Yanks but was replaced for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Joe Page hurled the final frame for the Bronx Bombers.

The next three games will be played at Ebbetts field, Brooklyn.

First inning — Brooklyn: Reese fouled to Lindell; Jorgensen grounded out to Henrich, unassisted; Snider was thrown out by Rizzuto. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York: Rizzuto singled to left; Henrich flied to Hermanski; Bauer fouled to Robinson; DiMaggio flied to Snider. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second inning — Brooklyn: Robinson doubled to left field; Hermanski fouled to Coleman; Robinson going to third; Rackley grounded out, Johnson to Henrich; Hodges singled to left, scoring Robinson; Hodges went to second on Lindell's error on the hit; Campanella was purposely passed; Roe fanned. One run, two hits, one error.

New York: Lindell flied to Hermanski; Johnson flied to Snider; Coleman flied to Snider. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third inning — Brooklyn: Reese was thrown out by Rizzuto; Jorgensen fouled out to Silvera; Snider

MOON'S ECLIPSE IS DUE TONIGHT

Beginning at 8:05 o'clock tonight, unless clouds obscure the show, residents of Gettysburg and vicinity will be treated to an eclipse of the moon. At that moment the moon will move into the earth's shadow, the total phase to last until 10:33, when the eastern edge of the moon will begin to emerge from the shadow. The meteorological phenomenon will end at 11:43 o'clock.

The eclipse will be visible over the United States and North America, except for the extreme western and northwestern portions.

Astronomers explain that as the earth revolves around the sun it casts a long cone-shaped shadow in the direction opposite to the sun. The moon is always in the direction opposite to that of the sun once a month at the time of full moon. The path in which the moon moves around the earth is slightly tilted to the path of the earth around the sun, and this is why the moon does not pass into the shadow of the earth every month.

During the total eclipse the moon is visible as a copper-colored disk due to atmospheric refracted sunlight. On few occasions the atmosphere is filled with clouds, shutting off sunlight and making the moon invisible during the middle of the totality.

CLUB MEETS TUESDAY

The Soroptimist club will hold a business meeting next Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hennis, York street, at 8 o'clock. A board meeting will be held at 7 o'clock.

SCOUT LEADERS INSTRUCTED IN SONGS, DANCES

More than 60 women attended the meeting of troop leaders, assistant troop leaders and council members of the Girl Scouts Wednesday evening at St. James church to learn the art of teaching rhythm in singing and folk dancing.

Miss Janet Tobitt, of Sussex, England, who enjoys an enviable reputation as an expert in teaching music and song-dances, was engaged to instruct the local group. She was enthusiastic over the reception she received here and the enthusiasm of the women actively interested in the Girl Scouts, and the instruction program.

Miss Tobitt emphasized the importance of being prepared to give instructions at scout meetings. She complimented the women for their wholehearted response and their participation in the rollicking songs and dances. She was associated with the Girl Guides of England and for the past three years has served as music consultant for the Girl Scout Council of Greater New York. She also toured the Pacific Northwest in connection with her work of instruction.

County Well Represented

The county was well represented at Wednesday's meeting. There were four women from East Berlin, six from York Springs, five from Fairfield, 11 from Littlestown, two from New Oxford, 28 from Gettysburg and some additional guests. Cashtown, Arendtsville and Abbotstown were not represented.

Miss Ruth Doud, secretary of the YWCA, was introduced.

Miss Marion Tupper, executive director of the Girl Scouts, presented Miss Tobitt.

Church Women Will Hold Five Meetings

Meetings of the five circles of the Women's Service Guild of the Presbyterian church will be held next Tuesday evening. The next meeting of the general Guild will be held in November.

Members of Circle No. 1 will meet at the home of Mrs. Edmund Thomas, Jr., West Lincoln avenue, with Mrs. Charles Severance, Mrs. J. Donald Swope and Mrs. Donald M. Swope, associate hostesses.

Circle No. 2 will go to the church at 6:30 o'clock for a covered dish supper.

The meeting of Circle No. 3 will be held at the home of Mrs. Murray B. Frazee, Howard street, with Mrs. Ira Plank as associate hostess. Mrs. Allen Stauffer, Biglerville, will entertain the members of Circle No. 4 at her home, with Mrs. P. J. McGlynn as associate hostess.

The members of the Junior Circle will meet from 7 to 9 o'clock at the home of Miss Jean Wolfe, East Lincoln avenue.

Reports Given On Huntingdon Meeting

Reports on a regional meeting held last month in Huntingdon were presented Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Adams County Fraternal and Social organization, held at the McSherrystown Knights of Columbus home.

President Charles Lauver and Secretary Arthur J. Roth made the reports and then discussed with the delegates from 10 clubs present further plans for a banquet to be held at Gettysburg after the first of the year for the organizational representatives, officers of the various clubs making up the county group and their ladies.

J. Francis Yake, Jr., was elected attorney for the county organization. The next meeting will be held November 2, at the McSherrystown Home association. That meeting will mark the first anniversary of the county organization, which was established October 26, 1948, at the Moose home here.

Eleanor Eck, seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ruth Eck, Lee Meade inn, was treated for a laceration of her left index finger, after being bitten by a parrot.

COUNTY SCHOOL OFFICIALS SCAN HEALTH REPORTS

While the current school health examinations have been started for this year in some schools, county school officials today were studying summarized reports of last year's examination sent them by the state department of health.

These reports show a total of 4,268 students examined, including 3,485 in the county schools and 783 in the Gettysburg schools during last year's test. One hundred and five teachers were also examined. A total of 1,492 students and four teachers were found to have remediable defects.

Visual defects were among the largest in number with 500 youngsters found to have some eye trouble. In addition, 167 were found to be wearing glasses that were needed to restore their eyes to 20/20 vision.

Many Diseased Tonsils

More than half of the children found to have defects had diseased tonsils, a total of 733. Nose and throat defects were noted for 143 youngsters, heart defects were found in 136 children and 52 were found to be suffering from poor nutrition.

The success of "shots" in preventing disease has apparently led large numbers of parents to have their children inoculated against various illnesses, the report shows. Of the 4,268 inspected, 2,065 were found to be completely immunized from diphtheria, and 1,826 had received the shots necessary for complete immunization from tetanus. Six hundred and six had been inoculated against whooping cough, 56 against scarlet fever and 80 against typhoid fever.

York Springs Plans Halloween Parade

The York Springs Lions club will hold its annual Halloween parade Saturday, October 29 at 8 p. m. The affair has been growing larger each year, and more prizes will be given this year. The finance committee, consisting of Jack Hershey, Richard Myers and Ray Reinecker, are selling "ads" for a program booklet, and the money will be used for the prizes.

Free refreshments will again be furnished to the youngsters after the parade. The rain date is October 31.

The general committee, headed by Harold Lerew, comprises the following: Preston Zerbe, Harold Miller, Clair Brame and Glenn Kemper. Refreshments: Maurice Bower, M. S. Hershey, E. C. Lerew, E. J. Smith and Stewart Grove; parade: R. L. Pittenturf, H. M. Fack, N. D. Stary and Roger Smith; traffic: F. E. Coulson; judges: Ross Koons.

Pupils To Study Poetry On Oct. 15

Adams county school children will take up special studies on poetry October 15, if recommendations by County Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh are carried out.

Noting that Governor Duff has proclaimed October 15 as Poetry Day, thus making Pennsylvania the 17th state to celebrate the day, Superintendent Slaybaugh has asked all English classes to especially mark the occasion with study of appropriate poetry.

Slaybaugh also noted that October 14 has been named by the state as Fall Arbor and Bird day, to double the number of celebrations designed to promote conservation of wildlife and trees. Spring Arbor day is April 14.

300 Baltimoreans To Tour Battlefield

A group of more than 300 Baltimore residents will come to Gettysburg Sunday for a tour of the battlefield, making the trip here by special train over the Western Maryland railroad, the Chamber of Commerce announced today.

Arrangements have been made by Dr. H. Roland Carroll, Baltimore, with the chamber, to have buses meet the group at the train and take them over the battlefield. They will have a picnic on the battlefield.

It might be said that a wedding ring is a sort of tourniquet which is worn on a girl's left hand to stop her circulation.

24 APPEALS ON ASSESSMENTS WILL BE HEARD

The Adams county commissioners today announced that they will hold their regular session next week on Thursday, due to the holiday on Wednesday, Columbus Day.

Next Thursday's session will also mark the beginning of hearings on the 24 cases listed to come before the commissioners in which residents of the county are appealing from the findings of assessors in their districts.

Clerks to the commissioners said that the 24 appeals were filed during the past month—the only period during which a property holder could file an appeal from the assessor's findings—and noted that the 24 were all that remained from several hundred that were contemplated by property holders. A large number of countians visited the local office during September, planning to bring appeals, but after comparing their assessment against others in their immediate locality all but 24 dropped plans for appeal, clerks said.

Paying Off Jail Debt

Arrangements were made Wednesday for a new voting place in Mt. Pleasant township No. 1 district. For many years the voting place was located in the school along the road between New Oxford and Bonneauville. The school has now been closed and sold to a private owner, the commissioners said. Arrangements were made to hold future elections in the district at the home of George Lohr, about a half mile west of the former voting place.

Seven thousand dollars worth of jail bonds were marked cancelled by the commissioners today. The bonds were those paid off this year and their cancellation brings the debt on the jail down to $36,000. Each year the commissioners plan to pay off $7,000 of the bond.

Five bids on a new car for the county home were opened by the commissioners at 11 o'clock this morning. However the bid will not be given out until some time this afternoon after the county authorities have studied the bids and consulted the county solicitor on the matter, clerks said.

East Berlin Man Asks Commutation

John P. March, East Berlin, sentenced by the Adams county court in February, 1947, to serve three and one-half to seven years on a charge of arson, has asked the state Board of Pardons for commutation of his sentence.

March, who was refused clemency a year ago, claims that he was not guilty. He said he admitted the fire at the time of his arrest "thinking that by so doing I would not be involved deeper."

LABOR CLAIMS FARMER LINK

St. Paul, Oct. 6 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders today claimed success in cementing labor-farmer political alliances for a joint drive in the 1950 Congressional elections.

They said they have worked out deals with farm groups in various sections of the U.S. to cooperate "in electing our friends and defeating our enemies" in next year's important campaigns.

George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, told the federation's annual convention that "in many cases the problem of making our influence felt in predominantly rural districts has been solved by working out formal and informal alliances with farm groups."

Joseph D. Keenan, director of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education, in winning convention endorsement of a multi-million dollar political war chest, said: "There is one thing we have learned in our experience in the political arena. The enemies of labor are also the enemies of the farmer. Since our enemies are in common, the individual farmer and the city worker have everything to gain through mutual, political action as voters."

Keenan told newsmen the AFL Political League has worked out co-operative political arrangements with groups belonging to the National Farmers Union, National Grange and American Farm Bureau. The convention unanimously approved a resolution authorizing a political fund raising drive. It contemplates collecting a $2 contribution from each of the AFL's claimed 8,000,000 members. Keenan said he hoped this would not several million dollars.

One member who has made a number of tours said no other city had equaled Gettysburg in hospitality, courtesy and town-wide interest.

The Times gave copies of its various editions to each member and sent the edition, containing the stories of the "kick-off" dinner, start of the tour and other news features, and the two large picture layouts, to Wilmington for distribution at the farewell dinner. The papers had been inserted in specially printed envelopes and attracted much favorable comment.

It is another illustration of how cooperation, courtesy and hospitality pay off for Gettysburg.

Favorites Leading On Spring Mill Links

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (AP)—Two tournament favorites headed the field in the semi-final round of the Pennsylvania state women's golf championship today at the Spring Mill course.

Defending Champion Helen Sigel and Mrs. Mark A. Porter, recently crowned national women's amateur queen, reached the round of four with victories yesterday.

Miss Sigel kept close to par in subduing New Castle's Mrs. Thomas Nolan. Despite two three-putt greens, Miss Sigel rounded the turn five-up and coasted on the final nine.

Mrs. Porter was one-down at the turn against Mrs. Harrison Flippin but came back to win 2 and 1. The black-hatted national champion clinched her match by winning the 16th and 17th holes after Mrs. Flippin had evened the score by capturing the two previous holes.

Joining the top-seeded stars in the semi-final round were Mrs. John G. Capers and Mrs. Frank A. O'Neill.

Rev. Carroll Ends Local Pastorate

The Rev. Floyd A. Carroll, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist church, announced to the official board of the church that he has asked the district superintendent, Dr. W. Edward Watkins, to release him from his pastoral duties here for the remainder of the current conference year.

The release from the local pastorate was effective with its announcement to the local church officials, the Rev. Mr. Carroll said today. He has been pastor here for the last four and a half years.

The Rev. Mr. Carroll had no statement to make concerning his future plans.

Lebanon Valley To Build New Gym

Carlisle, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Lebanon Valley college will break ground October 22 for a $500,000 gymnasium and physical education building.

Dr. C. A. Lynch, president of the Anville institution, made the announcement at the 161st session of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren church. Money for the gymnasium was raised by churches in the conference. Dr. Lynch disclosed the college has nearly doubled its assets in the past 17 years, growing from 10 buildings to 17.

A. C. Wertsch, superintendent of the Quincey Orphanage and Home, reported that the institution is in the midst of a six-year plan to improve its buildings and other facilities at a cost of $300,000. The money is raised annually through Christmas offerings in the churches.

LOT SELECTION IS IMPORTANT

Many of those things which make a vacant lot a potential homestead cannot be measured by a surveyor nor guaranteed with the abstract. So it's just as well not to rely entirely on what the real estate salesman says about a particular piece of property.

There are certain points on which the prospective buyer should check up for himself. The neighbors, the schools and transportation facilities have more to do with future satisfaction than the big oak tree or the clump of lilacs in the corner.

Type Of Neighbors
Are the people near by the type you wish to live among? From visits to the schools and the churches, investigations of the clubs and civic organizations, inspections of the parks and the library, one can get a fairly accurate idea of the people in a community.

Not only the scholastic rating of the school system, but also the proximity of the school, dangerous crossings and convenience to church, park, library and shopping centres are other factors to be seriously considered.

Is the traffic a quiet by-way with light street or is it a noisy, dusty main thoroughfare? Do building regulations govern the type of structure and the distance it must be set back from the street?

Investigate piping, curbing and paving improvements and the prospect of special assessments.

Have Survey Made
And, before signing a contract to buy any piece of property, be sure to have a survey made by a competent engineer and make certain that the boundary lines are exactly as represented. More than one land buyer has come to grief through failure to take this precaution.

After all these dull matters have been attended to, the buyer may turn to the more interesting feature—the character of the land itself. There'll be plenty of time to gloat over the beauty or the convenience of the location.

Remember that buying a lot to build on is quite a permanent matter—a decision you'll have to abide by for a long time. So take it easy.

DEATHS

Things Of The Soil

GROWING EARLY GREEN ONIONS

Measured in terms of healthful, eagerly relished food, no other vegetable grown in the home garden equals green onions started from fall planted sets or "multipliers" and brought to the dining table in early spring. And on the same basis early green onions, marketed clean and neatly bunched, command a profitable source of revenue in many small town and city markets and at roadside stands. Together these reasons justify every vegetable grower in planning and planting at least a small bed of onions within the next two or three weeks.

Onions demand a deeply mellow, well drained loam. There is no substitute for natural fertility supplemented with well rotted manure turned under and worked through the soil to a depth of 8 to 10 or 12 inches. Hard and shallow soils are wholly unsuited for this crop.

In most cases commercial fertilizer is beneficial, a mixture containing a high percentage of phosphoric acid and potash. This should be applied at the rate of 500 to 1,000 pounds per acre and worked through the top soil before planting time. Commercial gardeners demonstrate the wisdom of side dressing onions lightly in late February or early March with nitrate of soda or other readily available form of nitrogen.

Time October is the recommended time to plant onion sets or multipliers, although if weather conditions or fall work interferes, planting may be done as late as the first week to 10 days of November. However, to avoid the risk of bad weather causing postponement of fall planting until spring, gardeners should stress late October planting.

Onion sets are merely onions grown from seed sown so thickly that the bulbs do not have sufficient room to grow large, or in other words, they are simply small onions. Each set produces a single green stalk, but each multiplier or "potato" onion is a group of several bulbs and will produce a cluster of green stalks. Sets should be spaced only 2 to 3 inches apart, multipliers 4 to 6 inches. Rows may be 12 to 20 or 24 inches wide, depending on types of cultivation and room.

In planting onion sets or multipliers the bulb should be placed upright and soil firmed well around it. The tip should barely be covered after soil settles.

If the onion bed is located in a somewhat sheltered spot and the soil is well drained, as it should be, no protective mulch will be needed over winter. But if there is danger of heaving from alternate freezing and thawing, a mulch of loose straw or hay may be applied after the ground freezes in December. Shredded corn stalks may be employed for this purpose.

Gardeners who have coldframe space not in use at this time of the year may grow green onions for late fall use by planting sets at once and keeping the sash on the frame when freezing or near-freezing temperatures prevail.

No insects or diseases menace green onions grown from fall planting—an advantage enjoyed by another other crops.

Plants not consumed in the form of green onions in the spring will, if kept cultivated to eradicate weeds, develop into mature onions for late summer harvesting. Spring onions, either for harvesting green or mature, may be started from seedling plants.

STORING MINOR ROOT CROPS

Parsnips—Many gardeners in this and less northerly latitudes leave at least part of their parsnip crop in the ground and harvest them when needed over winter. However, this is not a wise method where the ground may be frozen hard for long periods. A better way is to bury the late harvested crop in a well drained pit before cold weather arrives. A small supply may be stored in a cool, moist basement to bridge periods of inclement weather.

Beets—The late crop should not be left in its growing place so long that the roots become woody. Beets wither rapidly in ordinary basements and cellars and perhaps lose much of their food value at the same time. The safer method of storing this excellent vegetable, besides canning, is to bury the topped roots in a well drained pit or mound, preferably on a liberal layer of dry straw, with the heap covered with straw and soil to prevent freezing and drying. Only a limited supply should be kept in the cellar or basement for emergency use when the ground is frozen so hard that mounds cannot be easily opened.

Carrots—Here is another vegetable that loses much of its inherent goodness, and considerable of its valuable food properties when allowed to shrivel in basement or cellar storage. But if stored properly in an outdoor pit or mound, carrots actually increase their vitamin A content in storage. Every gardener should store a liberal supply of this healthful vegetable.

Turnips—Apparently light freezing does not impair the turnip's flavor, but storage safety as well as facility in harvesting suggest that the roots be taken up, topped, and buried in an outdoor pit before hard freezes come. Like most other root crops, turnips shrivel rapidly in cellar or basement storage. Only small temporary supplies should be kept under such conditions.

GHS Gridders Seek Fourth Straight Win At Waynesboro In Loop Tilt Friday Night

George Forney's Gettysburg high school football team, resting serenely in first place in the South Penn conference and possessors of a three-game winning streak, longest since 1942, take to the road this Friday when they invade Waynesboro to meet the Golden Tornado in another loop fracas.

Waynesboro, picked by many as an outstanding conference title contender this year in view of its veteran and heavy squad, has been somewhat of a disappointment after losing successive games to St. Francis Prep, Martinsburg, W. Va., and to Carlisle.

The Carlisle defeat was an eye-opener to fans who had anticipated an easy conquest for Ben Kribs' clan. Instead Carlisle pushed the big Tornado team all over the field to register an easy 24-0 upset.

Tornado To Be Tough
It is expected that Waynesboro will be on the rebound when they clash with the Warriors and the three straight losses may make it tougher for the locals, who must be rated as a favorite in view of their 7-0 triumph over Carlisle.

Coaches Forney and Shoemaker realize that their team will have to be at its best for a triumph and are preparing for a grueling contest.

The Warrior squad is fired with the ambition of turning in one of the best records for a local team in a long time and can be counted upon for its best effort. Gettysburg will be outweighed approximately 15 pounds per man and it will mean every local player will have to continue to show the fine spirit displayed in recent contests.

Word from Waynesboro is to the effect that Coach Kribs plans a shakeup in his lineup in an effort to snap the Tornado losing streak.

Coach Forney is expected to stick with his regular starting lineup that have proved to be such a pleasant surprise. Although the local youngsters lack weight they are making up for the handicap with continued improvement each week.

Other Games
Mechanicsburg and Chambersburg, almost unanimous choices to battle it out for the 1949 honors, are expected to be easy winners on Friday night.

Mechanicsburg will be host to Hanover high's Nighthawks while Hershey will play at Chambersburg.

Carlisle will meet Shippensburg in the other loop contest and is expected to win handily on its home grounds.

Delone Catholic high's unbeaten team meets Lancaster Catholic at McSherrystown Friday night.

Littletown high will play at Washington Township Saturday afternoon in a Little Six conference game. York Springs is idle this week.

PICK BULLETS, RUTGERS, PENN TO WIN GAMES

By HERB ALTSCHULL

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (AP)—It takes a little while, sometimes, before football fans can figure out which way a team is going. This corner doesn't have to be hit on the head with several hundred pounds of brick.

It knows now that Penn State is on the way out and Pitt is on the way in. Last week, thanks to Dr. Wright Neverwong's magic toe, we improved our seasonal average to .702 with 25 right picks, nine wrong and one tie for a .735 mark. (For the season it's .39, 16 and four.)

Here's the call on week number three:

Boston college at Penn State: Philosophers allege that magic operates in three, but whoever heard of a philosopher on a sports page? Penn State has lost twice to strong teams; it should have learned enough to beat a weak one. Penn State, but only by a whisker.

Duquesne at Alabama (Friday): There is every indication that the Iron Dukes are returning to their onetime position of national prominence. Even ardent Duquesners must admit, though, the Dukes are a year or so away. From Alabama, that's too far, Alabama.

Pennsylvania at Princeton: Here's a gridiron contest that fairly drips tradition, and that means in general past records can be discarded. Here, there aren't enough past records to curdle a single drape of ivy. Pennsylvania.

Pitt Again

Pittsburgh at West Virginia: Pride cometh before a fall, they say. But here the fall would be pretty steep and Pitt just doesn't seem to be quite that proud. Pittsburgh.

Muhlenberg at Lafayette: For two straight weeks, this corner has forecast a victory for Lafayette and then saw the Leopards lose close games. Could be we are putting the well-known whammy on them. Nevertheless with more bullheadedness than conviction, Lafayette.

St. Marys at Villanova (Friday): Games like this one are healthy for a forecaster's average. In a walk, Villanova.

Lehigh at Rutgers: Rutgers lost to Temple; Temple lost to Texas, 54-0. Lehigh has looked surprisingly strong. That is no reason for us to select Rutgers, but Dr. Neverwong's toe tells us the call is right. So, for some unexplainable reason, we call an upset victory for Rutgers.

Temple at Syracuse (Friday): One loses one's reason after too much of this business of comparative scores. Wildly, we throw caution to the winds. Syracuse.

St. Francis at Carnegie Tech: Three winning football teams in the city of Pittsburgh? Stranger things have happened, but not for a decade. Carnegie Tech to stay undefeated.

Skimming on the others:

Friday
Defiance over Gannon, Albright over Moravian, West Chester over Cortland.

Saturday
Allegheny over Oberlin, Bloomsburg over Kings, Delaware over Bucknell, Indiana over California, Clarion over Rio Grande, Franklin and Marshall over Dickinson, Gettysburg over Drexel, East Stroudsburg over Shippensburg, Slippery Rock over Edinboro, Grove City over Geneva, Ursinus over Haverford, Juniata over Hartwick, Mansfield over Kutztown, Western Maryland over Lebanon Valley, Millersville over Lock Haven, Susquehanna over Lycoming, National Agricultural over Long Island Aggies, P.M.C. over Swarthmore, Thiel over Westminster, Wilkes over Bridgeport.

Sunday
St. Vincent over Alliance, Scranton over Niagara.

Six Contenders In Kentucky Futurity

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6 (AP)—Six young steppers which have scrambled all season for recognition in the three year old trotting division will start tomorrow in the 57th renewal of the Kentucky Futurity.

The six are among 13 starters named for the $38,922 Futurity at the Lexington Tracts, the richest purse in the long, tradition-packed history of the event. And the winner might well become the three-year old champion.

The contenders are Hambletonian winner Miss Tilly, owned by C. W. Phellis; Saunders Mills' Bangway; Arden Homestead stable's Fibber; E. J. Hayes' Scotch Pal; Castleton Farm's Joe Donlin and Coldstream Stud's Volume.

Rounding out the field are Freeman Hanover, Rocco Hanover, Rosamond, Martha Doyle, Guy Ambassador, Portfolio and Elaine Sterling.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Red Rolfe, the Detroit manager, visited a familiar haunt, the Yankees bench, just before yesterday's World Series opener. . . . Incidentally, Red looked almost in shape to take over his old third-basing chores. . . . Talking about his own team, Rolfe commented: "Good pitching can cover up a lot of mistakes." . . . And he might have been calling the turn on yesterday's game. . . . There's no doubt about the pitching. . . . Don Newcombe was throwing a fast ball that the Yankees said dipped down around their knees, and his control was virtually perfect. . . . Allie Reynolds had it in the clutches, too, so much that Joe Page didn't even warm up. . . . On the other hand, Johnny Lindell and Joe DiMaggio, between the two, played Spider Jorgensen's first-inning drive into a double; Gerry Coleman bobbled a grounder badly and almost got Allie into difficulties; the Dodgers tried the hit-and-run several times when the hitter could only get a loud foul, and on the one Dodger steal Yogi Berra made a high throw to second. . . . Those are the mistakes that the pitching cured.

NO AID TO THE ENEMY
During batting drills yesterday, the Dodgers' Gene Hermanski picked up little Phil Rizzuto's bat and exclaimed: "What a heavy bat. Do you have to choke it when you swing? It feels like a toothpick." Phil just grinned and demanded: "What's this I hear about Newcombe pitching. . . . Here I rode all the way over here with this guy this morning and he kept telling me it would be Roe. So I just practiced hitting left-hand pitching." P. S.: Phil didn't get anything resembling a hit, so maybe he was kidding on the square.

STADIUM SHADOWS

American League President Will Harridge, like everybody else, felt that the World Series was a trifle anti-climatic after the windup of the regular season. . . . "We didn't know where we were going until Sunday," he commented, "and it was hard to believe that the Yankees could win both those games from Boston. Those were real World Series games." . . . Jake Pitler, Brooklyn coach, comedian and guardian of the ball bag, received a visit from Ed Gilliland of the Miami, Fla., club and promptly asked: "What about Pepper Martin and that umpire?" . . . Gilliland explained that Pepper had received comparatively light punishment for choking an ump for ordering an important game forfeited because all season Martin had been the easiest manager in the league on the arbiters.

Literally thousands of "New Yorkers" actually do not reside in the city. They commute miles daily so that they can live in the "country" or suburbs.

Henrich Again
They might still be out there, pitching their arms away, if "Old Reliable" Henrich, the Dodger hex, hadn't poled a Newcombe pitch among the right field seats. Between them they struck out 20 men, only two short of the record set in the 1944 St. Louis Cards-Browns Series.

The good folks of Flatbush have reason to remember Mr. Henrich from previous meetings. Tom is the man who was "struck out" by Hugh Casey in the 1941 Series only to have Mickey Owen drop the third strike. In the ensuing confusion, the Yanks scored four runs to win a game in which Henrich should have been the last out.

Roe figures to give the Yanks trouble. He is an experienced, crafty lefthander who has learned the "know-how" of pitching. No longer does he have the real hop on the fast one but he carves the corners and gets by.

YANKEES HOLD WORLD SERIES DRIVER'S SEAT

By JACK HAND

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Allie Reynolds' amazing two-hit shutout of Brooklyn boosts the New York Yankees into the driver's seat in the 46th World Series.

Now Manager Casey Stengel has the edge. He can gamble and lose, still confident of no worse than an even break. For "gambling" purposes he has a fit and ready Vic Raschi, the hero of Sunday's penultimate clincher against the Boston Red Sox.

Burt Shotton, elderly keeper of the Brooks, can't afford to miss with this afternoon's choice of Preacher Roe, the angular Arkansas Traveler.

In any World Series, the first-game winner has a tremendous jump. Often they lose, as the Boston Braves did after whipping Cleveland's Bobby Feller in last year's 1-0 opener, but the odds are in their favor.

After yesterday's 1-0 victory, made possible by Tommy Henrich's last of the ninth home run, the price makers rubbed off the old 10 to 17 odds favoring the Yanks and made it 1 to 3. For today's pairing of Raschi vs. Roe, they quote 10 to 13 with New York the choice.

Few Series games have produced better duels than the one Reynolds, the 31-year-old Oklahoman, and big Don Newcombe, the Dodgers' 235-pound Negro rookie, staged for 66-22 fans yesterday at the Yankee Stadium.

Page Unnecessary

It was a soul-satisfying triumph for Reynolds because "Old Whahoo" has been blistered all season in the public prints. Folks point at his 17-6 record and sneer "yeah, but only four complete games. Where could he be without Joe Page?"

Reynolds supplied the answer in spades. Never was he better. His curve ball drifted past Dodger bats like the blue haze of the sultry October afternoon. Page spent the afternoon sitting, not throwing, in the bullpen.

Page, of course, is the relief ace who followed Reynolds in 20 of the 31 regular season games he started. The Reynolds-Page corporation has been dissolved, temporarily, at least.

For 25-year-old Newcombe, making his first Series appearance, this was a disheartening setback. Big Newk, the jumbo-sized freshman, pitched well enough to win 90 per cent of the time. He yielded only five hits, two to Reynolds. This just didn't happen to be his turn.

Newcombe's 11 strikeouts were close to the Series high of 13, hung out by old Howard Ehmke, that October day in 1929 when Connie Mack unveiled him as his surprise starter against Chicago.

As fine as Newcombe was, Reynolds had to be better. The first-inning double by Spider Jorgensen that Johnny Lindell failed to reach after a late start, might have been caught. Allie didn't allow another hit until Pee Wee Reese singled to center with one out in the eighth. He fanned nine.

SECOND-HAND LIVING

One reason why so many are inspired by the reading of the thoughts of Thoreau is that he thought things out for himself. He did not relish the idea of living out the ideas of others, but decided that the world belonged to him and so from it he must evolve his own manner and philosophy, which he did. Second-hand living was not for him.

Thoreau was an individualist. We should all be that sort, and chart out our lives in individual fashion. Each of us is an "unique," as Emerson has so well stated. We ourselves are a problem. And it is well we solve that problem in individual ways and means.

We have all nature as a textbook. We have our natural gifts, through birth, and no two of us have the same. It is our task and privilege to develop to the full all that has come to us through endless generations. We don't need to borrow, but to keep creating from the storehouse of our inheritance.

Thoreau didn't cherish the idea of living out a second-hand life. He tells us in his "Walden" that he "went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived."

We can live happiest, and most successfully, by observing, keeping close to nature, simplifying our lives, and figuring out how best we can adapt our abilities to every change and emergency that may come up. We are an entity in ourselves, yet the whole world is our stage, and each one of us is his own interpreter of the part selected to play. We ought always to be our own selves.

Here again Thoreau. He said: "I love a broad margin to my life." That explains him. And it ought to explain each one of us, as we face the facts of life and try to chart out a way of life that will give us the supremest satisfaction. Not second-hand but first hand! And with that "broad margin" in which to write out a useful experience.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Life In Others."

THE MARKET

The market is a busy place
Where women go for silks and lace,
And frocks and hats and children's shoes
And everything that mortals use.
For true it is, until we die,
That some must sell and others buy.

Merchants and buyers all are we,
Exchanging something for a fee.
From errand boy to parson wise,
Each barters what another buys.
Doctors sell comfort to the ill;
Lawyers, to litigants, their skill.

No man so high and none so low
But to the market place must go.
From birth unto the funeral knell
All need what others have to sell.
And all in some way must supply
What others need and have to buy.

Rain and Wind Cause Damage in This Area: Whipped to almost gale proportions at times by a driving northeast wind, a cold, penetrating rain on Wednesday soaked Gettysburg and Adams county.

Early in the morning the rain was accompanied by a high wind which uprooted a tree on the campus of Gettysburg college and upset numerous sidewalk signs on Gettysburg streets.

Only those who had pressing business to attend to were on the streets for the driving rain made walking disagreeable.

Personal Mention: Mrs. Wayne Keet, Chambersburg street, is spending the week in Philadelphia.

Miss Edith Minter, Harrisburg, and Miss Beatrice Minter, Gettysburg, returned Sunday from Atlantic City where they spent several days.

Mrs. C. P. Sanders, Broadway, entertained a number of friends at dinner at the Flora Dale tea house Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Sallie Bender moved on Wednesday from Carlisle street to York. Clarence Sney was returned from Greensburg, where he had been a guest of relatives for some time.

Dr. William C. Waltemyer and family, who have been living in the parsonage of the College Lutheran church, since their arrival in September, moved on Tuesday to the property on Broadway, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Staley and family.

Miss Margaret Bream, Seminary Ridge, has gone to Altadena, Calif., to visit her brother, Herbert, who is ill.

RHODE ISLAND RED HEN WINS POULTRY TITLE

Harrisburg, Oct. 6 (AP)—A Rhode Island red hen which laid a grand total of 336 eggs in one year, held the title today of "Miss America of the feathered world."

The hen, owned by J. J. Warren, Brookfield, Mass., won the title in competition with 32 other feathered prima-donnas at the 12th annual exposition of the Northeastern Poultry Producers council now underway here.

A hen had to produce at least 300 eggs in 51 weeks and have a pedigree rating in order to compete in the NEPPCO hen-of-the-year contest.

Production Increases

The hens were judged not only for their productive ability, size of egg and reputation of parents, but also on their weight and body conformation as determined by the standard for her breed.

Other breed winners were R. H. Bingham, Hardwick, Mass., New Hampshire, and Babcock Poultry farm, Ithaca, N. Y., leghorn.

G. T. Klein, Massachusetts extension poultryman, told the closing session of the exposition today that "egg production is increasing at the rate of three eggs per hen yearly."

"This annual egg production," he added, "gives us the eggs needed for a growing human population of a million persons a year, at the rate of 379 eggs per capita which we are eating this year."

STATE FIREMEN PARADE TODAY

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Hundreds of dollars in prizes dangled before members of the Pennsylvania Firemen's Association in their annual convention parade today. Ninety marching units were entered in the event.

Yesterday the firemen elected new officers. Charles W. Hysong of Greensburg was installed as president, succeeding Jacob N. Fidler of Reading. Four vice presidents were chosen: Gordon Roberts, Edwinstown; Alva C. Blaine, Camp Hill; Thomas Shuffstall, Rocky Grove, and Thomas Bowser, South Williamsport.

Charles E. Clark, Wayne, was named secretary; L. Ellis Wagner, York, treasurer, and the Rev. Frank W. Ruth, Bernville, chaplain.

The association chose Harrisburg for its 1950 convention.

The women's auxiliary named Mrs. A. H. Gasolas, Turtle Creek, as president, succeeding Mrs. E. J. Mellin of Jermyn, who was elected a director. Other directors were re-elected.

Three vice presidents chosen were Mrs. William Noll, Reading; Mrs. C. J. Shuttout, Tarentum, and Mrs. H. O. Pierce, Coatesville. Mrs. Bruce R. Coleman, Reading, was selected as recording secretary; Mrs. Charles M. Stoner, Reading, financial secretary, and Mrs. R. D. Zimmerman, Shamokin, treasurer.

Practical Joker Lands In Hospital

Detroit, Oct. 6 (AP)—A welder's "hot seat" gas at a car factory here yesterday had these results, police reported:

Robert Gunn, 40, a welder, is in a serious condition from a head injury.

Edward Fife, 28, victim of the gas, is held on an assault charge pending the outcome of Gunn's injury.

Fife told Assistant Prosecutor Nathan Kaufman he clouted Gunn over the head with a ballpeen hammer after Gunn, just to see him jump, heated his metal seat with a welding torch.

Gunn, in a hospital, was unable to make a statement.

Arrest Three For Dumping Coal Truck

Somerset, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Three Maryland men are under arrest here in connection with dumping a load of non-union mined coal consigned to the Cumberland (Md.) Memorial hospital.

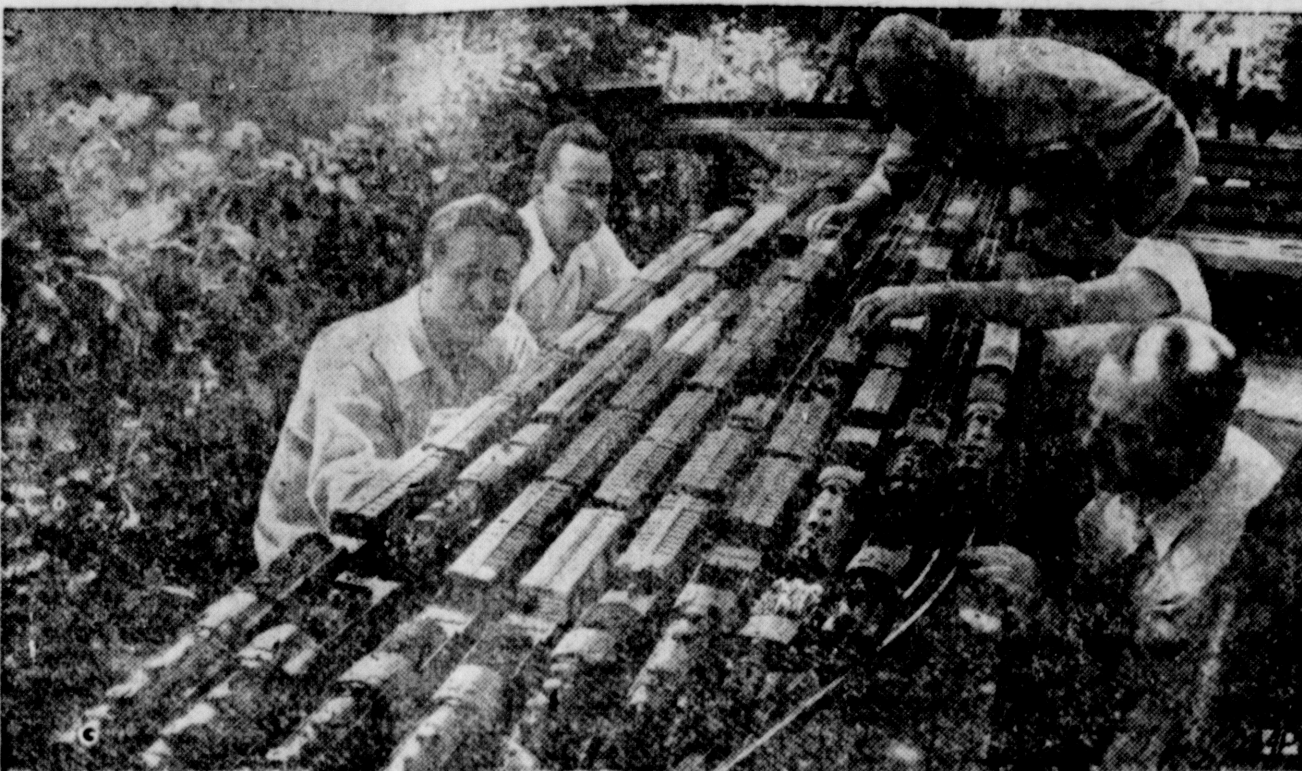

The men are charged with unlawful assembly and affray. They were arrested a few hours after Clyde Reynolds said he was forced to stop his coal truck and ordered to stand by as the load was scattered along a highway.

State police identified the trio as John W. Miller, 29, of Frostburg, and Robert L. Grimes and Marshall O'Neil, 26, both of Zacham.

Officers said Reynolds, who was not harmed, secured the license number of the auto driven by the men.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A surprise birthday party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Musselman, Gettysburg R. 5, in celebration of the 17th anniversary of their daughter, Dorothy. Those attending were Jay Waybright, Catherine Rohrbach, Ross Crouse, Mary Jo Tawney, Marvin Welkert, Betty Miller, George Musselman, Barbara Hankey, Lloyd Myers, Dorsey Allen Waybright, Ralph Stiller, Barbara Bream, Belle Strickhouser, Mary Louise Schriver, Kenney Snyder, Anna Snyder, Bill

PROTEST RED TREATMENT OF ROAMING YANKS

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The United States sent a strongly worded note to Russia today protesting the "shocking" mistreatment of Americans who stray into the Soviet zone of Germany.

"This treatment the United States government finds to be in shocking contravention to the most elementary standards of international decency," the note said.

At the same time the United States, through Ambassador Kirk in Moscow, notified the Russian Foreign office that "it expects that those Soviet officials who are responsible for these acts will be punished."

The American note referred specifically to the case of the two American college students who "inadvertently and innocently" entered the Russian zone while bicycling and who were detained for eight weeks.

Yank Prisoner Escaped

It also cited the case of Pvt. John J. Sinkowicz, an American soldier, who escaped September 16 from a prison in the Soviet sector of Berlin after 10 months of imprisonment.

Publisher Is Given Plaque By Lodgemen

Harrisburg, Oct. 6 (AP)—Edwin F. Russell, publisher of the Patriot and the Evening News, received a silver plaque last night from the Harrisburg Elks lodge as part of the city's observance of National Newspaper Week. "I accept this token, not just on behalf of myself, nor our newspapers, nor the industry, but on behalf of a free press," Russell said.

The plaque was presented to Russell by Carl B. Sheeley, past exalted ruler of the lodge, "for the service which he and his newspapers have rendered our community and for his daily exemplification of the ideals of our order in his personal and professional life."

The note said he was held under "brutal and uncivilized conditions."

The note said bluntly: "There can be no justification for this kind of treatment of citizens of a friendly nation, persons whose only violation of law is purely technical at most and whose innocence of criminal charges can easily be established."

PENSION BILL PASSES HOUSE; UP TO SENATE

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Riding a triumphant 333 to 14 House vote, legislation vastly expanding the nation's social security program moved over to the Senate today. It would add 11,000,000 to the 35,000,000 workers now covered by old age insurance.

Its sponsors voiced hope it would lessen strikes and strife over labor demands for pension plans financed wholly by employers. In the federal program, workers and employees share equally the cost of the benefits the workers later receive.

Senate approval is considered virtually certain—some time before the 1950 fall elections.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate finance committee said the Senate is bound to vote for higher security benefits, but will not be able to act before the second session of the 81st Congress convenes in January.

Increases Benefits

The new bill would raise the minimum old age benefit from $10 a month to $25 a month. It would increase the maximum benefit for an elderly couple from $85 to around $126 a month. Benefits are based on a person's average wage and the number of his working years during which he paid payroll taxes into the program.

In addition to blanketing new millions under old age and survivors insurance, for a total of 46,000,000 covered workers, the 201-page bill would:

1. Boost benefits by 70 to 80 per cent or more.
2. Create new disability insurance, to take care of persons who by illness or accident can never work again.

Workers Pay More

3. Increase the payroll taxes on employee and employer. The tax would go up from the present 1 per cent on each, to 1½ per cent next year; 2 per cent in 1951; 2½ per cent in 1952; 3 per cent in 1953; and to 3½ per cent on each in 1954.

The tax would be collected on the first $3,600 of a person's income. It is now taken on the first $3,000. The tax will go up automatically to 1½ per cent in 1950, under the present law.

Among new groups wrapped into the program are self-employed persons, domestic servants and employees of state and local governments. This might mean the institution of a stamp book plan for 750,000 servants and their housewife employers, to collect the security taxes.

Stassen Hints He May Seek Presidency

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, hinted today he may be a presidential candidate in 1952.

Asked in an interview about his chances for the presidency, the former governor of Minnesota said he considered the time "too early" to go into the question but added:

"I have always been interested in public affairs and intend to retain that interest. I am deeply concerned about the fundamental policies that affect the people of this country, questions that involve peace or war, good living conditions and bad living conditions."

Stassen was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last year.

Policy reserves of U. S. life insurance companies total almost 50 billion dollars.

AURIOL ACCEPTS TRUMAN HOPES RESIGNATION OF HE CAN AVOID FRENCH PREMIER AN ARMS RACE

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—French Premier Henri Queuille's resignation was accepted today by President of the Republic Vincent Auriol.

Queuille, who had led France's government for the last 12 months, submitted his resignation yesterday because of a split in his coalition cabinet over wage and price controls.

Auriol will begin this afternoon the difficult job of trying to find a new premier.

Fifth Resignation

Queuille quit because he opposed demands for a general wage boost made by the Socialists, who were one of the main parties in his coalition cabinet that had held together for a year and 26 days—longest of any postwar French government.

Communist and non-Communist unions have demanded wage boosts to offset rising prices expected from devaluation of the franc.

It was the fifth time since the creation of the postwar fourth French Republic that Auriol has accepted a premier's resignation.

Among the United States, the amount of insurance in force per capita varies from $400 in Mississippi to $1,970 in New York.

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Truman said today he hopes the world can avoid an armaments race, but expressed doubt that Russia's expected new proposal on atomic energy control will be acceptable.

The President emphasized anew his hope that the United Nations can be brought into a position of strength so that atomic control can be lodged in it.

A reporter at the President's news conference asked if he was looking forward with interest to the forthcoming Russian proposal on atomic energy.

Not especially, Mr. Truman replied.

The President was asked whether his announcement of an atomic blast in Russia might have made it more possible to reach agreement with the Soviet on the atom. He said he couldn't answer that and then went on:

U.S. Position Unchanged

"We have made the most important proposition in the history of the world on atomic energy. The Russians did not see fit to accept it. The United States position will not be changed now."

Mr. Truman commented that no other country in history, possessing a terrible weapon, ever offered to subject it to world control. The Russians have made several proposals that cannot be accepted.

The President went on, adding: "It probably will be the same thing this time." As for the Russian atomic explosion announced by him September 23, Mr. Truman said he has made all the statements concerning it that he intends to make.

In reply to another question, the President expressed hope there will be no arms race as a result of the Russian development.

An average New York skyscraper will team with thousands of workers in the daytime and be almost as silent as a tomb at night.

EMMITSBURG VFW SPONSORS TWO PATROLS

The Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars held their monthly meeting Wednesday night with an attendance of 45 members.

Letters of thanks were read from the Emmitsburg high school and Saint Euphemia's school for the merry-go-round and sliding board which the VFW donated to the two schools, respectively.

Safety Patrols, through the American Automobile Association and its representative, Kenneth Burkhardt, from the office in Frederick, have been secured for Saint Euphemia's and Saint Anthony's schools, reports at the meeting disclosed. The post donated badges and white belts and plans to furnish raincoats for the two patrol groups. The duty of the members of the patrol is to assist with the children on the playground and also with the loading and unloading of the younger students who travel on buses. A letter of thanks from the two schools was read at the meeting.

A discussion by the commander and the members took place as to whether or not to make alterations within the building to enlarge the capacity of the main rooms. A committee comprising Clyde Eyer, Gerald Ryder, Sr., Frederick Bower, Harold Hoke, Lumen Norris, Everett Chrimer, Charles Rowe, John Garner, Eugene Kremer, and Wayne McClellan was appointed to look into the matter, get an estimate on the cost to renovate the building. If necessary, a special meeting will be held to discuss their findings.

Three new members, Walter Top-Shaffer were voted into the post. Commander Wales Rightmire discussed having an entertainment night some other evening besides Saturday. This week the post will have piano music and a Solovox on Friday night.

There was a drawing of the door prize of $20, but the member called was absent. Next meeting the prize will be $25.

Great stress was placed upon the early payment of the 1950 dues, also upon the effort that should be made in trying to get new members into the VFW.

The American Legion Auxiliary No. 121 of Emmitsburg held its regular meeting Tuesday evening, with Mrs. Ann Topper, vice president, presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Laura Rosensteel. Members were asked to pay dues to Miss Ruth Gillespie or Mrs. Madeline Harner by November 1.

Proceeds from a rummage sale held on Saturday, September 10, were reported as $52.65.

The auxiliary agreed to let John (Jack) Rosensteel, president of the Junior American Legion baseball team, hold meetings of the team in the auxiliary meeting room.

It was decided to hold the annual Halloween party on Tuesday, October 25, for members and social members only from 8 to 12 o'clock in the American Legion club room.

Dr. Easterday, county health doctor, and Mrs. Ward, R.N., were given permission to use the auxiliary meeting room for a child care and pre-natal clinic.

At the close of the meeting the members were served refreshments in the club room.

Next month's auxiliary meeting will be held at 8 p. m. instead of 8:30 p. m., the group decided.

PRESIDENT NOT TO INTERVENE

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Truman said today that the coal and steel strikes have not yet reached the point for his intervention.

He made the statement at a news conference. Minutes earlier John L. Lewis accepted an invitation to attend a government-sponsored peace parley on the coal strike tomorrow.

The mediation talks were called by Conciliation Director Cyrus Ching, who said the coal situation is approaching a crisis.

Mr. Truman said warning of gov-

Col. Matt Winn Of Derby Fame Dies

Louisville, Oct. 6 (AP)—Col. Matt J. Winn, 88, president of Churchill Downs and impresario of the Kentucky Derby, died at St. Joseph's infirmary at 2:45 a. m. (CST) today.

Col. Winn had been in serious condition for the last several weeks following two operations. The exact nature of his illness was not announced, but it was understood the operations were designed to correct a stomach disorder.

Members of his immediate family were at his bedside when he died.

Col. Winn was one of the few persons who had seen all 75 of the Kentucky Derbies. He saw the first one as a boy of 13 and last May he achieved his life's ambition when he attended the diamond jubilee of the derby.

MURDER TRIAL OF MOTHER IS NEARING JURY

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—The trial of Mrs. Martha Woodson Kalwaic neared the jury today with more testimony designed to show the 29-year-old mother was temporarily insane at the time her 15-month-old son was beaten fatally.

Counsel for the Virginia-born wife of a Hazleton, Pa., dentist and the commonwealth were in agreement that taking of testimony probably will end today. The jury of nine women and three men is expected to receive the case tomorrow.

Mrs. Kalwaic is charged with murder in the death of her son, Henry, last May 12.

"Temporarily Insane"

Dr. Edward R. Janjigian of Kingston, Pa., Veterans Administration neuro-psychiatrist, testified yesterday Mrs. Kalwaic was temporarily insane at the time of the tragedy.

"From her history, my examination, her background and facts I obtained she was temporarily not sane at the time of the child's death," Dr. Janjigian testified. "This insanity period was sudden, explosive, and acute breakdown."

The specialist added Mrs. Kalwaic "was not in her right mind, did not know the difference between right and wrong."

Dr. Janjigian also told the jurors he had seen soldiers act similarly during the war, only to be restored to duty and make "splendid" records.

Takes Full Blame

Before the psychiatrist took the stand, Mrs. Kalwaic described events in her household on May 12—the day her infant son died in Hazleton hospital of a skull fracture.

Only once during the three hours on the stand did the tall blonde mother break down. That was during the cross-examination by District Attorney Leon Schwartz when she was shown photographs of the interior of her Hazleton apartment.

At the conclusion of her testimony, Mrs. Kalwaic said she told the family physician, Dr. James Kennedy:

"No one else is to blame but me."

EPISCOPALIANS MAY UP BUDGET

San Francisco, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Episcopal Church in the United States today considered hiking its budget 60 per cent to battle "militant, assured, relentless and aggressive secularism."

The proposed budget of $5,643,617 for 1950 was presented to the triennial convention late yesterday. It is $2,000,000 more than the present budget. It was approved by the house of deputies after heavy debate. The house of bishops votes today on concurrence.

The Rt. Rev. Karl Morgan Block, bishop of California and chairman of the joint committee on program and budget, commented:

"If we can make this the start of a spiritual revival in the church, then the raising of money will be only coincidental."

"The Christian faith is besieged from without by a militant, assured, relentless and aggressive secularism. It is betrayed from within by inertia, indifference, neglect, frustration and self complacency."

The committee allocated $150,000 a year to aid diocese and missionary districts in an expansion program to care for the great domestic migrations resulting from the war and postwar population shifts. It proposed an increase of $217,148—a total of $341,500—for Christian education.

ernment officials that the coal and steel stoppages will hurt the domestic economy were well timed and necessary. He then went on to say that the situation has not yet reached a stage for him to intervene.

Asked about progress in studies to find synthetic fuels, Mr. Truman said progress is being made, particularly regarding shale deposits in Utah. He added that experiments are being carried on in Virginia on coal to provide liquid fuel.

The coal operators accepted Ching's invitation to tomorrow's conference before Lewis acted.

The world's tallest building, the Empire State, in New York, houses a television transmitter, with antenna atop its 102-story high tower.

TRUMAN SIGNS BIG AID BILL

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Truman today signed a bill providing $5,809,990,000 to carry on the foreign aid program until next June 30.

Most of the money—$3,776,360,000—goes for the Marshall Plan. The remainder includes funds for aid to Greece and Turkey and for costs of occupying Germany, Austria, Japan and the Ryukyus.

The measure also sets up funds—previously authorized but never legally provided—for operating the Economic Cooperation Administration for the final three months of the fiscal year 1949.

Breakdown Of Items

The legislation was passed by Congress Sept. 29 after almost nine months of hearings, debate, and attempts to cut the ECA allotment. It carries about 10 per cent less money than ECA Administrator

The board said that on February 10 the board room of the trustees in Chicago was broken into and records of the board were thoroughly searched.

Dr. George F. Lull, secretary-manager of the AMA, said "no accusations are made against the Department of Justice."

But he called the incident one of "real significance in the chronology of events since the AMA decided to make a nationwide campaign against compulsory health insurance."

COUPLE AND BABE ESCAPE BLAZE

Mercersburg, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—A couple with their infant daughter jumped 15 feet from their second floor bedroom early today when they were awakened by fire in their home.

John Hays clutched the baby, Barbara Anne, as he jumped from the window. His wife followed him a moment later.

The flames swept through the two-story stone building, destroying its furnishings. No estimate was made of the loss.

Firemen said the blaze probably originated from a short circuit in the electric wiring.

Kaiser Bows To Steelworkers' Demands But Walkouts Spread To More Plants

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE HAND IN TALKS ON COAL

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6 (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers made peace with Henry J. Kaiser but spread their walkout to two more plants today.

And as the nationwide steel shutdown over pensions reached the sixth day, the Federal government—still ignoring Philip Murray's battle with Big Steel—announced it would try to settle the 18-day-old strike of 400,000 soft coal miners.

The ranks of 500,000 striking steelworkers were joined last night by 1,500 at the Atlantic Steel company in Atlanta and 2,800 at the Riverdale plant of the Acme Steel company near Chicago.

Sporadic Violence
Atlantic is a basic steel plant which also does some manufacturing while Acme's Riverdale plant is primarily a fabricator.

Despite these developments there are no signs of an early peace in the double-barreled steel-coal walkout.

Kaiser Steel's acceptance of contract demands was announced last night by Murray, president of the steelworkers.

Kaiser Gives In
Kaiser did what Big Steel refuses to do. It signed an agreement to give four cents per man-hour for insurance and six cents an hour for pensions paid completely by the company. The plan is retroactive to October 1. Thirty-five hundred employees at it Pontana, Calif. plant will benefit. Their contract was due to expire October 15.

The Kaiser agreement, which follows the exact recommendations of the Presidential Fact Finding board, is the first reached since the strike began. And the West Coast firm is the second basic steel producer to accede to the union's demands.

Portsmouth (Ohio) Steel, with 4,000 employees, signed before the strike deadline six days ago. American Can company with 14,000 employees also agreed to a pension and insurance program before the strike was called.

Using Calls Lewis
The government is showing no indications of stepping into the steel strike soon but Cyrus Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, summoned John L. Lewis and coal operators to Washington tomorrow.

Lewis didn't reply immediately. Operators said they're willing to try and find a way of ending the United Mine Workers' strike which began September 19.

Ching said the walkout is "approaching a crisis," adding: "Although there is a lot of coal at some points, even today some people are affected by the coal shutdown and the longer it goes the worse it gets."

Cool Reception
The walkout came after trustees of the Miners' Pension and Welfare Fund suspended payments. They said some southern operators quit paying 20-cent-a-ton royalty payments.

Lewis met with southern operators

UMW officials were cool to the government's mediation efforts. UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy commented the mediation service hasn't been very successful. He indicated negotiations—without help of the government—would continue even if the union sends representatives to Friday's meeting.

Reports of violence in non-union areas continued. In Pennsylvania three Maryland men were arrested near Somerset after police said they stopped a loaded coal truck and overturned it. The driver was not molested.

Littlestown

Littlestown — Harry E. Bair, superintendent of Christ Reformed Sunday school, Luther W. Ritter, a teacher in St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school, and the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, have been selected to represent the third district, Adams County Council of Christian Education, at the annual state Sunday school convention to be held at Johnstown, October 11, 12 and 13.

In reporting the weekly meeting of the Littlestown Rotary club in Wednesday night's paper, the name of J. Ray Reindollar, who was accepted as a member of the club, was unintentionally omitted.

Election of officers was held Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the confirmation class of Redeemer's Reformed church, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor. In the junior group, the following are the officers: President, Gordon Thomas; vice president, Joan Koonitz; secretary, Fred Miller, and treasurer, Marilyn Spangler. In the senior group the following were elected: President, Patricia Spangler; vice president, Joan Sheely; secretary, Nancy Wenschhof, and treasurer, Nancy Crabbs.

Mrs. Samuel W. Beck was in charge of the program for the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of Redeemer's Reformed church, Tuesday evening in the social hall. After recital of the Apostles' creed, there was group singing which included, "Bringing in the Sheaves" with Mrs. Frank E. Reynolds as pianist. The leader read Psalm 146 after which there was prayer. Mrs. Reynolds read a poem, "Help Our Country," which pertained to the United Evangelistic Advance. The guest speaker was Mrs. Anna Leach, whose theme was "Even Up." Business was conducted by the president, Mrs. John LeGore, with the secretary's report by Mrs. Reynolds and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Ralph Reaver. It was announced that $46 had been realized from the recent bake sale held by the society in the fire hall. Plans were also completed for serving the annual consistorial banquet of the former Gettysburg Classis of the Reformed church on Thursday, November 3, at 6:45 p. m. Turkey will be the main dish. The group also voted to serve a wedding reception on Saturday, November 19. A guest package contributed by Mrs. Charles Hafe was received by Mrs. Ralph Reaver. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. C. Garland and Mrs. Charles Hafe. The next meeting will be held in the social hall, Tuesday, November 1, when Mrs. Frank E. Reynolds will be the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Dehoff, Sr., Littlestown R. 1, announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Romaine, to Lloyd E. Groshon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Groshon, Graceham, Md.

Seventeen members and guests were present on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Dillman, South Green street, for the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Centenary Methodist church. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Verdie Strain, the vice president, Mrs. Ed. Harner, presided over the meeting. Devotions were led by the pastor, the Rev. Harvey B. Simons. Mrs. Dillman presented the secretary's report. Mrs. Margaret Tagg, one of the oldest members of the organization, was honored at this meeting on the occasion of her 85th birthday. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, October 25, at the home of Mrs. Robert Crist, Centennial avenue.

FIRST STEPS WITH MUSHROOMS

Many persons would like to grow mushrooms on a small scale for home consumption but hesitate to ask the simple, primary questions necessary to learn those important first steps. On the other hand, writers on the subject usually take for granted that everybody knows the initial steps. Therefore, there remains a gap in knowledge over which beginners must risk failure or stumble the best they can, usually hesitant to ask for information they need. Here are some of the overlooked principles:

Mushrooms can be successfully grown under home conditions in a cellar, basement, cave or other room where temperature and humidity can be controlled. Manure from grain-fed horses whose stables are bedded with wheat straw is the only established medium.

Under no circumstances, regardless of opinions, should any person embark into commercial mushroom production without first growing a crop or two to discover mistakes and to adjust methods with means. Rarely, very rarely, is a howling success attained with the first attempt.

Mushrooms are grown from spawn, a culture sold by most seed firms and nurseries and listed in their catalogues. The bottle spawn is considered best, especially for beginners. One Imperial quart bottle, when broken into about 40 pieces and these planted 8 inches apart each way, will plant a bed of about 18 square feet.

Failure and success in growing this crop depend largely on how the manure is prepared before it is placed in the bed. This process is called composting. It consists of piling manure in a compact heap to ferment (heat). Dry materials are dampened to promote uniform fermentation. Of course, if manure is piled loosely it will burn (fire-fang). After the temperature rises, or in about 10 days or slightly less, the heap is forked over into a new pile with the outside of the first turned to the center of the second. Usually three of four such re-pilings are necessary to render the manure suitably brown and moist to use in the mushroom bed. In all it requires from 25 to 35 days to prepare manure properly for this role.

The manure should be forked apart finely and placed firmly in the bed. There it will heat again. But spawn should not be planted until the temperature rises to its peak and drops back to around 75 to 70 degrees F. Then spawn is planted as already suggested, about 8 inches apart each way and covered thinly in the manure.

The room temperature should be held around 55 degrees throughout the bearing life of the bed. In about 10 to 15 days after spawn is planted a white mold should appear over the surface. Then a light coating of loamy soil should be spread over the manure and patted down, after which it should be kept moist but not wet. Mushrooms should begin to appear in a few weeks and the bed bear for 3 to 5 months.

Fall, winter, and spring months are recommended for home growing of mushrooms because proper temperatures and humidity are more easily maintained.

Every person interested in this subject should write his or her Congressman for a free copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1675—Growing Mushrooms. This publication is written in language for commercial growers but it contains many informative suggestions for amateurs. Of course, the editor invites all questions readers wish to ask in this matter.

and which is safe to turn into organic matter for soil enrichment.

First among common disease dangers to avoid are the mildews. For example, rose leaves infected with mildew should be gathered and burned before winter. The same advice applies to affected foliage of beans, lilacs, and scores of other plants likely to harbor over-wintering spores of this fungous disease. In the last few years horse-chestnut (buckeye) trees have been severely attacked by a leaf disease called leaf blight. One of the principal steps in effective control of this defoliating trouble is to gather and burn all infected leaves in autumn.

Numerous stalk borers attack such fleshy-stalked plants as dahlias, cucumbers, squashes, sweet corn, hollyhock, chrysanthemums, and many other food and ornamental plants. Safety demands that all refuse suspected of harboring borers be burned before winter and not placed on the compost heap. This is particularly true of sweet corn and field corn stalks where the European corn borer is known to be present.

Cabbage refuse, including undeveloped heads, stalks remaining after heads are harvested, leaves and other cabbage debris, teems with disease dangers. Every gardener should carefully gather and burn cabbage refuse within the next month or two. To permit this material to remain in the garden or to be thrown along fence rows or even to be plowed under may result in heavy inroads of disease next year. The same warning should be applied to wastes of closely related crops, such as cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, broccoli, and other crucifer plants.

Bacterial wilt of cucurbit crops—cucumbers, squashes, and cantaloupes—is an example pointing to the importance of burning refuse from these crops soon after their harvest season. And litter from tomatoes, sweet potatoes, and celery may well be added to the autumn bonfire.

Adults of the Mexican bean beetle, striped cucumber beetles, Colorado potato beetle and several other garden and orchard foes hibernate over winter beneath weeds and other vegetation in fence and similar areas. Cleaning out idle nooks and putting the accumulated vegetation on the compost heap before winter denies many plant enemies over-winter shelter.

Codling moths, brown rot of stone fruits, curculios and many other insect and disease pests of the orchard may be greatly curbed by a careful clean-up campaign after the last fruits are harvested and foliage drops.

In the early part of the 20's all vacuum tube radio receivers operated on batteries. "Plug-in" sets didn't begin to appear until 1926.

Drop Three Appeals From State Figures

Harrisburg, Oct. 6 (AP) — Three York county school districts dropped their objections to the real estate market values determined by their districts but a fourth was to be heard today.

Chairman John N. O'Neill of the State Tax Equalization board said the districts — Red Lion borough, Windsor and York townships — had informed the board that questions raised by the market values had been answered. Hearings on the appeal had been scheduled for today.

The three districts were among 80 out of some 2,500 school districts which had protested use of real estate values in calculating state school grants.

The board found in each case, district, Oct. 13.

O'Neill said, that market values in 1948 were far in excess of county assessments used currently to determine how much subsidy a district is entitled to for school support.

However, another hearing on the appeal of the West Manchester township school district was slated to be heard late today and one on the objections of the York school district, Oct. 13.

STORY DEFINES HIS NOTION OF "RELIGION"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The Bishop of London, Dr. John W. C. Wand, says he was surprised to find during his recent six-weeks tour of the United States that 50 per cent of Americans "have no religion at all."

The Church of England prelate remarks that in England practically everybody owns to having a religion and "if he is not very sure about things and does not go to church regularly, he says he is Church of England." Dr. Wand doesn't define the term "religion" in his little statement.

Not being a theologian myself, but in seeking a definition, I am referred by my dictionary to the New Testament—James 1:27—where I read: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the father is this, (for man) to visit the fatherless and widows in the affliction, and keep himself unspotted from the world."

That, I take it, involves following the Golden Rule and living a correct life in the eyes of heaven. Anyway, what I'm leading up to is a homely little story which I encountered last night.

An artist friend of mine cracked up a few days ago and is in a hospital awaiting a serious operation. He is one of America's foremost illustrators, whose work all of you must have seen. When he collapsed he was just starting to do five pictures for an important rush order.

In desperation he took this work to the hospital with him, and was struggling helplessly with his crayons when an artist friend called. The visitor promptly confiscated the entire art outfit and rushed to a telephone. Within a matter of minutes he had recruited four other distinguished illustrators and they immediately foregathered in one of their studios.

Then the five—all of them busy in their own right—set to work, each according to his special talents. The specialist in drawing pretty girls took the panel which called for one. A tennis action picture went to the expert in that type of thing. And so on, until the series had been provided for. Thus in a few hours the panels were completed and dispatched to their destination.

A Pretty Good Lot

When I was calling at the hospital one of the quintet dropped in to see how the sick man was getting along and the latter tried to express his gratitude for the contribution of his colleagues. The visiting artist flushed and squirmed:

"Forget it," he growled. "There isn't one of us who hasn't been helped by you when he was in a jam."

Well, that's all there is to my story, and it could have had its setting in Canada or Latin America or Europe or Asia. But it happened in America where half the people—among whom, I suspect, my five might be placed—"have no religion at all."

Or have they? I wonder—but, as previously remarked, not being a theologian I can't argue the point. So please, you experts, don't start writing in to correct my errors. Just leave me happy in the thought that those rescuing artists are a pretty good lot who proclaim their religion by their deeds, and that they represent untold legions of other good folk.

PTA PLANNING FALL EVENTS

Saint Joseph's High school's Parent-Teachers association held its first meeting this fall, Tuesday evening, with President Hugh Rocks presiding. The secretary, Mrs. Marie Rosensteel, and treasurer, Mrs. Thornton Rodgers, gave reports.

Plans for a Halloween dance Friday, October 28, were outlined. Students of the school will be guests of the PTA at the party. Mrs. Bernard Boyle was appointed chairman of the committee in charge. Mrs. Clarence Wachter was named chairman of penny bingo, to be held on Saturday, October 22, at 7:30 p. m., at the high school auditorium. The members present voted to purchase a 30-inch power lawn mower to be used on the school grounds, and a report was made on the shrubbery that had been planted late in the summer around the school buildings.

It was decided to change the date of meeting to the second Tuesday of each month and the time to 7:30 p. m. instead of 7 o'clock.

Hugh Rocks, president of the association, is a resident of Waynesboro, and is patent attorney at the Landis Tool company. Rocks was born in Newcastle, Pa., and after graduating from high school attended Penn State college, where he took the engineering course. Upon his graduation from college he accepted a position in Waynesboro. He has four daughters and two sons, the elder son and daughter being students at St. Joseph's high school in Emmitsburg.

An announcement at Tuesday's meeting disclosed that the freshman class of St. Joseph's High school has selected class officers. They are, president, Joseph Dunne; vice president, Ronald Rosenwald; secretary, Margaret Rocks, and treasurer, Charles Baker.

1/2 cup Farmdale or Asco Milk
1 1/2 teaspoons plain gelatin
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup syrup from peaches
1/4 cup granulated sugar
10 quartered marshmallows
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 1/2 cups canned cling peach slices
1 baked 9-inch pastry shell
Chill milk until ice cold. Soften gelatin in lemon juice. Combine peach syrup, sugar, salt and marshmallows, and cook and stir over very low heat until marshmallows are melted. Stir in softened gelatin and lemon rind. Chill until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg whites. Whip chilled milk with cold rotary beater until stiff. Fold into cold gelatin mixture. Pour in well-drained peach slices. Pour into baked pastry shell, and chill until firm. Decorate with additional peach slices. Serves 6 to 8.

Note: To whip evaporated milk, chill milk, bowl and beater thoroughly. To hasten chilling, pour milk into refrigerator tray until icy (about 15 to 20 minutes).

Littlestown UNIFORM RANK TO REORGANIZE ON OCTOBER 18

Fire Chief Jay D. Basehor in presenting his monthly report to the Alpha Fire company No. 1 at the meeting Tuesday night stated that there had been three fire calls since the last meeting. He also spoke on National Fire Prevention Week which will be observed during the week of October 9 to 15. He urged that the firemen and the people of Littlestown and vicinity use this week as an opportunity for examining the wiring of their properties, chimneys, stove-pipe, debris in attics and cellars and anything else that may constitute a fire hazard.

Secretary Harry M. Badders was instructed to communicate with the borough council requesting the purchase of 300 feet of 2 1/2-inch hose and 250 feet of 1 1/2-inch hose, to replace the hose that wore out during a recent fire which hose had been in use for 20 years.

There will be a reorganization of the uniformed rank Tuesday, October 18, at 8 p. m. in the fire hall. An election of officers is anticipated.

Plan Talks with Kingsdale
President Bernard Selby reported that he had been approached by a committee from the Woman's Community club of Littlestown and vicinity in regards to sharing the expense of repairing and repainting the library and meeting rooms and the hallway of the fire hall. Considerable discussion followed. The firemen feel that the borough should be consulted before any thing is done since the hall is borough property. They also feel that outside repairs are needed before anything is done to the inside.

There was a discussion concerning the overlapping territories of the Kingsdale and Alpha Fire companies. Since the Kingsdale company, which has just been recently organized, is not fully equipped to fight a fire and since it doesn't have a way to let the members know when there is a fire in their territory, it was decided to get together and decide on the policy to be followed. The following committee from the Alpha company will meet with the Kingsdale company at its next meeting: Robert Koontz, Jay D. Basehor, Bernard Selby and Harry W. Badders.

A request was received from the VFW Drum and Bugle Corps for permission to use the fire hall each Thursday evening for practice. Permission was granted.

Elect Nine Members
Kenneth Sparver, Wayne Arnold and Glenn Ohler were appointed a committee to decide upon the date and place for the firemen's annual picnic to be held in the near future.

The name of Earl Weaver was placed in nomination for membership. The following nine were elected to membership: Le Roy Helwig, Charles W. Weikert, Robert Beard, Herbert Ecker, Burnell Keagy, John Messinger, Louis Clingan, Joseph Cookson, and one honorary member, Roy Barnes.

It was announced that the fourth quarterly meeting of the Adams county firemen's association will be held Monday, October 10, at 8 p. m. at Hampton. Bills were ordered paid in the amount of $102.69. Receipts were reported as $3,151, most of which was proceeds for the carnival, and $25 was a donation from Charles M. Weikert.

Bernard Selby, president, was in charge of the meeting and Harry W. Badders presented the secretary's report. A treasurer's report was presented by Paul E. Altoff. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting to 47 members by a committee consisting of Paul Bowman, Robert Weaver and Richard Myers.

Hear Reserve Officer
Joel B. Guin, a major in the United States Airforce Reserve, delivered a lecture Wednesday afternoon to the students of the Littlestown Junior-Senior high school on the subject, "What's Right with America." He discussed this topic from the standpoint of America's resources and the use made of them. Major Guin has given more than 2,000 addresses from coast to coast in colleges, universities, high schools, clubs, etc.

Mrs. George Mayers, Baltimore pike, near town, was hostess to the monthly meeting of the Mite society of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Tuesday evening. This meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Emma Norwood, and Mrs. Paul Scheivert presented the secretary's report. Devotions were led by the hostess, who read a lesson from the fifth chapter of St. Matthew, and prayer was offered by Mrs. David S. Kammerer. The following new members were received: Mrs. Minnie Miller, Mrs. Walter Groce and Mrs. Mahlon Bucher. Following the business meeting there was a surprise birthday party in honor of the president, Mrs. Norwood and Mrs. Bertha Long. A social committee consisting of Mrs. John M. Feeser and Mrs. George Mayers arranged for the event. The following program was presented: poem, "When the Frost Is on the Pumpkin" by the Rev. David S. Kammerer; two vocal solos by Donald Kump, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Robert Mayers; readings by Mrs. Cora Bair, Mrs. John M. Feeser, Mrs. Raymond Kump, Mrs. Minnie Miller, Mrs. Mahlon Bucher, Mrs. Walter Groce and Mrs. Paul Scheivert. Two contests followed which were won by Mrs. Cora Bair and Mrs. Walter Groce. A birthday cake with candles occupied the center of the refreshment table. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, November 1, at the home of Mrs. Emma Norwood, Baltimore pike, near town.

To Get Holiday
The public school children of the Littlestown Jointure, along with the other public school children of Adams county, will enjoy a vacation on Friday, as the teachers will be attending the Southern PSEA convention, which will be held in the Zembo Mosque and the William Penn high school in Harrisburg. Fourteen were present Wednesday evening at the weekly meeting of Littlestown Girl Scout Troop, No. 39, of which Miss Shirley Dodder is the leader and Mrs. Hazel Hess, assistant leader. After a pledge to the flag, there was group singing of "Down by the Engine House." The program continued to work on their painting. Games of the evening were led by Suzanne and Mary Harner. The guessing game was won by Barbara Helwig and the game of musical chairs was won by Audrey Ellen Brumbach. Riddles were also enjoyed. The meeting closed with the girl scout handclasp. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, October 12 at 6:30 p. m. The employees of the Jacobs Brothers Sewing factory did not work on Monday, because of a religious holiday. A number of the employees and friends took advantage of this day and took a bus trip to the Luray Caverns and over the Sky-line drive. Those taking the trip were Rose and Sandra Shadle, Gladys Sanders, Della Collins, Grace Harner, Lizzie Flickinger, Violet Dixon, Lester Frock, Edna Crouse, Portia Crouse, Arlene Krumrine, Josephine Hall, Cora Renner, Mary Harman, Jane Harman, Laura Redding, Helen Shuey, Mary Baughman, Jeanetta Mehning, Betty Meh-ing, Margaret Bucher, Esta Trostle, Margaret Warehime, Maggie Cut-sail, Orin Hooper, Ada Wildasin, Inez Markle, Elsie Messinger, Arlene Gresson.

REQUESTS FOR RELIEF MOUNT WITH STRIKES

Harrisburg, Oct. 6 (AP)—Requests for relief are mounting in Pennsylvania due to the coal and steel strikes.

Robert W. Wray, deputy secretary of public assistance, said today applications "are way up" in such places as Johnstown, Bethlehem and Pittsburgh and are expected to go even higher if the two labor disputes are drawn out.

The Public Assistance Department already has taken visitors off their regular cases in the hot spots and assigned them to interviewing new applicants.

May Expand Force

"If the load gets too heavy in the weeks ahead, it may be necessary to add to our interviewing force," Wray added.

The first strikers appealing for relief grants are those with large families, those where there had been extended illness in a family and those who only recently obtained jobs. In such cases, individual resources are soon exhausted and none of the striking workers are eligible for jobless benefits.

Wray said, however, that applications from persons in industries indirectly affected by the strikes are "more than double" those from strikers.

Older Folk Affected
"As transportation and other business is curtailed as a result of the steel and coal shutdowns, a great number are forced to ask for public aid," he said.

Applications also are coming into local offices of the Public Assistance Department from older persons who had been receiving support from children, now themselves out of work.

Wray said that so far, however, no new centers for taking applications have been established.

Asked particularly about an establishment of such a center at Bethlehem, Wray said it was a matter for decision by the Northampton county Board of Assistance. The board's present headquarters are in Easton.

An eight-unit coaxial cable, designed primarily for television, can handle as many as 1,800 long-distance telephone conversations at the same time.

Some types of radio transmitting tubes are gold-plated to increase their efficiency at high frequency operation.

A&P, TOO, TAKES OFF ITS HAT TO MR. C. WHIT BLOUNT OF WAYNESBORO, GEORGIA

-AND TO ALL OUR OTHER GOOD COMPETITORS WHO HAVE TAKEN A SIMILAR STAND

[An Advertisement From The Waynesboro True Citizen]

A Word For Our Competitor The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

There has been a move by the anti-trust department of the Federal Government to destroy our leading competitor, the A&P Food Store.

It may seem odd, but we are opposed to this move.

The A&P Co., is definitely our strongest competitor - they keep us hopping. But, we are still in business - And Expanding. We do it by selling quality merchandise, buying at a close margin and selling at CLOSER margin.

The so called "trust-busters" charge that the A&P Co. control some of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they hold the cost price down on foods.

WELL, WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS??

If A&P holds the costs down, it makes our suppliers hold their costs down to the same competitive level. They can sell cheaper, AND SO CAN WE.

We intend to continue to try to sell better merchandise than A&P; We also will continue to have competitive prices.

BUT, We don't believe the government, or any individual should try to break up a firm that is doing a good, clean, efficient job of serving the people of this country.

Waynesboro Groceteria

[An Editorial From The Atlanta Journal, Thursday, Sept. 29, 1949]

Competitor Denounces Suit Against A&P

THE BOLD three-column advertisement in the current issue of the Waynesboro True Citizen catches the reader's eye. We quote it in full.

To our notion that advertisement by C. Whit Blount states the economic and governmental aspects of the case against A&P with a clarity and forcefulness that most of the editorial comment has lacked.

Also it strikes us as a fine example of sportsmanship in business.

Incidentally, it is about as effective an advertisement as could have been written for Mr. Blount's "Groceteria".

Makes you sort of wish you were in Waynesboro to trade with him, doesn't it?

Chapter 9

He began to quarrel with her. He did it deliberately because he knew his twin brother Joe and how Joe would have reacted. He did it, too, because he couldn't stand to have her near him, couldn't take her frankly spoken love, his own deceit. And the thing ended about the way he thought it would. Her hand flashed up and slashed across his cheeks, first one and then the other, in resounding blows.

"Get out!" she shouted at him. "Get on up to that line camp where you belong. You're no good. You never were any good. I'm going to marry Harry the next time he asks me."

It took courage, but he did it. He grabbed her by the shoulders and shook her. "On the day that you marry him you'll have a dead bridegroom on your hands," he said with simulated harshness. Minutes later he led a saddled animal to where his gear was piled on the ground.

Then he saw the white outlines of her dress as she came close. "Oh, Joe, Joe!" she whispered. "How much I love you. You haven't changed a bit."

He took her into his arms and kissed her hard, and this time there was no acting. He thought, I'm falling in love with my twin brother's girl!

He had to get out of there fast and he knew it. He laughed. "Of course you do, honey, and I love you. You didn't mean a word about me being no good, did you?"

"Not a word of it. Now get out of here and don't you come back until you make good."

"I'm halfway there already, me beloved." He grinned and swung up. Jay made the trip in a little over three hours. He saw the height of Old Sandstone loom up closer until he could see the serrated back with a hump in the middle. Then, when he had almost ridden by, he caught the outlines of a big cabin made of sandstone and mortar and a small corral. The place was dark and he guessed that Turk Pennock, after a hard day in the saddle, was sound asleep.

Jay dumped his gear outside the door, which was open, making plenty of noise as he did so. From within came the sound of a body rolling over in a bunk and a sharp metallic click.

"Who is it?" rapped out a voice from the darkness. "Joe, you fool. I just got in," sported the bogus Joe.

"Holy smokes! I'm shore glad to have company again." A match flared and Turk Pennock put the lamp globe back on and turned. He was a big, red-faced man of around thirty-five with the countenance of a good-natured thief who wouldn't hesitate to steal if there was money in it.

"You danged ol' woman-chasin' hoot owl," he chuckled delightedly. "I'm sure glad to see you back. It's been plenty lonesome since you left. It was obvious that he knew nothing about Joe's getting shot."

"Man, am I glad to see you! It's been lonesome up here with me waitin' day after day fer you to come back. Say, how'd that raid on the ranch come out?"

Jay was removing gunbelt and chaaps. "It didn't work," he said, busy with buckles along his left leg. "The old man has guards out around the horse pasture and they was well armed, from the way they let loose. One of the boys got shot—don't know who."

They arose, just before sunup, ate breakfast, swallowed down the last cup of scalding black coffee, and fixed up two packages of lunch.

He purposely waited until the other man mounted first, not knowing whether Turk had the east or west patrol. Pennock swung up and headed east with a wave of his hand. Jay turned west, following a well worn trail made by many other riders before him, including his brother Joe. By the time he rode back that afternoon he had met the rider from the next line camp, and knew the general lay of the country.

He fell into line-camp life with ease and a certain familiarity born of his experiences in the Texas cow country. Not until the second afternoon, did he spot the strange rider. The man was about a mile away, and Jay looped toward him. But to his surprise the man wheeled his horse and disappeared at a gallop into a forest of green mesquite.

On the third day he finished his patrol early and came in about two hours before sundown. Pennock was already in, his horse unsaddled in the corral.

Turk Pennock was shaving, already dressed in his Sunday clothes. "I was wonderin' if you'd fergot," he chuckled. "Hurry up an' git dressed. It's our night to howl."

Jay didn't know what it was all about, but he went to his bunk and shed his clothes, drawing out a pair of new pants and a clean shirt from his warbag.

Pennock was fully dressed now. He said with a grin, "Come on, let's saddle an' get goin'." He can make it in a little over two hours."

It was shortly after the late summer darkness had set in that they saw lights ahead, plus the gleam of water among a wide belt of sand.

"Antelope Creek!" came Turk's laughing voice in the darkness.

"Brad knows what it takes to keep his boss thieves happy."

Chapter 10

Jay saw the dark outlines of possibly a dozen crude shacks and at least fifteen corrals farther out on the prairie. The horse raider must have been pretty sure of his strength and cunning to have such a big camp within thirty or forty miles of a big ranch.

They rode up and swung down. A dozen or so riders lounged about both on the porch and inside.

"Lo, boys," Pennock greeted them as they mounted the porch. "Look who I got with me."

"Hi, Joe," several men greeted Allison, though there was something curious, almost strained in their looks. Jay knew that word of Joe's getting shot in the raid on Randall's Morgans was bound to spread. He'd just have to let things go and see what happened.

They went inside and a pretty dark-faced, dark-eyed girl who was either half or full-blooded Mexican came over and looked up with a bright glance.

"So? You have come back at last?" she asked, and he caught the faint trace of an accent in her voice. "Yep, he's come back, Lucia," chuckled Turk Pennock, turning, glancing in hand. "But it won't do you any good this time. Old Man Randall laid down the law to him plenty."

"Who is this old man Randall?" she demanded. Pennock, with a guffaw, replied for him. "Shucks, Lucia, didn't he ever tell you as how he's goin' to marry Randall's ranch one of these days? That gal over there—"

"So?" Lucia demanded. "I let you kiss me an' now you have another girl all the time?"

Jay squirmed at the laughter of several men and was glad when she frowned over and leaned beside Turk.

"That's all right, honey," he drawled, and slid an arm around her waist. "I'll kiss you any time, and I ain't got no other girl."

A lithe-looking, Mexican rider moved in, wariness in every movement of his body. "Lucia, she is my girl," he said in slow, precise English. "You keep away from her, Joe. You understand?"

"Take it easy, Miguel," grinned Turk. "I am no man's girl," she informed the three of them. "And my father is an American and I was born here."

"You are my girl," the border Mexican insisted. "Some day I take you with me to Mexico."

"Her paw might hev somethin' to say about that," grinned Turk good-humoredly. "He catches a greaser from across the line foolin' in with Lucia an'—"

Something like a snarl broke from the Mexican rider's lips at the word "greaser," the greatest insult you could utter to a Mexican. His hand flashed to his hip and started up, but Jay was standing beside him and his hand flashed down, holding the gun in its sheath.

"Turn loose!" snarled Miguel. "I keel you, I keel both of you now!"

Rage had changed his precise English. He was snarling like a cat, his dark, handsome face contorted. But Jay's fast action had given Turk and the others time to move. Three men were on the Mexican raider in a flash. They held him while he struggled and cursed in Spanish. One of them slipped the gun from its sheath, laughing, and handed it over to the man back of the crude eight-foot bar.

"Here, Limpy, put this back there till Miguel cools off. Come on, boys, cut it out. You know what Brad's orders are about fightin' amongst ourselves in camp. Cool down, Mig. Joe an' Turk don't want yore girl."

"I am not his girl," snapped Lucia. She stood, slim and willowy, head back, her eyes flashing. She was not at all disturbed that the trouble had been over her.

They released the Mexican raider. His face was a shade paler, his eyes bright. He had regained his composure.

"Some day I kill you for this, Joe," he said quietly. "Aw, fergit it, Mig," Turk said good-humoredly.

He turned to Joe, the matter now past. "If you ever git in a jam, Joe, an' need a friend, you won't have to send word more than once to Turk Pennock."

"I, too, do not forget," the Mexican vaquero said with a significance in the words that left no doubt as to his meaning.

Jay turned to the bar and heard footstep beside him and looked up into the face of Jim Swinnerton. The lawyer was smiling.

"That was a nice bit of work, but you've made an enemy. We don't allow that kind of thing here in camp. So watch your step. Joe. That makes two enemies you've got here now." This last in a very low voice. "Peg Smith is here."

"Yes?" Jay answered in an equally low voice, inaudible to all but Swinnerton above the hum of conversation in the room.

"Maybe we'd better take a walk. Your brother is here, too. Hank brought him in on a travois. My orders."

Strike Vote Okayed For Westinghouse

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6 (AP)—The CIO-United Electrical Workers union at the East Pittsburgh plant of Westinghouse Electric corporation has authorized a strike vote unless the company grants an "adequate security program."

The action was taken at a meeting of 4,000 of the local's 13,500 members yesterday in Turtle Creek stadium.

The vote came a few hours after Westinghouse announced its willingness to meet with its three unions to work out an "improved contributory pension and social insurance program."

The unions, in addition to the UE, are the AFL-International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaried Workers unions. There are nearly 70,000 UE members in all Westinghouse plants.

The other two unions have less than 20,000 members working for Westinghouse.
